IMPORTANT CHANGE FOR 2010! PLEASE READ

In the current economic climate, the Arlington 4th of July Parade - like many non-profit organizations - has found it more difficult to raise money. For that reason, all parade entrants will be charged a $25 entry fee this year.

We are proud that we are one of the last major parades in the area to remain free to participants. We hope everyone appreciates that our committee does everything possible to keep costs low, while still putting on a first class event that honors America and the city of Arlington.

From the Editor:

Lots of changes for the 45th edition of the July 4th Parade! Of course, the big one is the $25 entry fee for all participants this year. Please be sure to send your money along with your registration form.

Also, note that we have a new website address. We're now www.arlington4th.org, rather than .com.

We look forward to seeing everyone at the Parade Fair this month. Come get great ideas and order parade T-shirts, created by an art contest winner from AISD.

Sponsors Welcomed

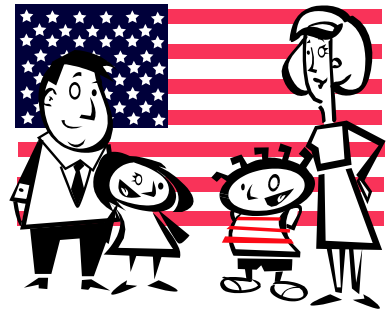

As you know, the parade is run by a volunteer committee. We have GREAT sponsors, many of whom have been long-time supporters. With their help we have been able to keep the parade free for entrants. Like many companies, some of our sponsors have been hit by the tough economy and are unable to support the parade as in years past. Thus it has become necessary for the parade to charge a $25 admission fee for organizations who want to be in the parade. This fee, along with the sponsor's generous support, helps pay for necessities such as insurance, postage, publicity, and other miscellaneous expenses.

The parade will be seen live by tens of thousands and will be broadcast on the Arlington ISD cable channel.

If you would like to become a sponsor, or know someone who would, please email the committee at president@arlington4th.org.
